

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A case of the vehicle periphery monitoring apparatus to be mounted on a vehicle includes a front case member formed of transparent resin including a transparent window, and a rear case member joined and detachably fixed to the front case member. A cover member for covering the front case member except for the transparent window and covering the periphery of a mating surface between the front case member and the rear case member is further provided.